“ *Dearest Brit,
You are an angel now watching over your daughters. Our family and I loved you the moment we met you 16-18 years ago. I always anticipated your calls or texts.... sadly no more. I believe God is holding you sooo sooo tight and you no longer have all the pain and fears... they are gone forever. I understand you are with God in peace, and I will try to explain that to my heart. I promise to always be there for beautiful Ayiana and I know you'll watch over her. RIP WITH YOUR DAD, MY BEAUTIFUL AND KIND SON IN LAW, Always in our hearts- Your mother and father in law, Denise & James*

“ On behalf of myself and all of 60th Ordnance, we send our deepest condolences and love to you all! Our group is very much broken hearted by this! He meant so much to many of us that new him from the military! I'm especially sad as he and I were close and remained close. Please make sure your family knows how much we are effected by this. Love ya! And give him loves from me and all of us

On a personal note, I'll never forget your calls out of the blue from either the airport, or wherever you were. I have at least 7 phone numbers and a few emails from you over the years to keep an update of you. You're one of the reasons I never changed my number because you always kept in touch. I spoke to you often this year as well as all the other years and I know how hard you fought your battles. I never in a million years expected to lose you so soon! I know you know how much you meant to me, I wish I was there for you this past week. I wish I could be there today. Love you and I'll think of you always! I'll be saving your texts! RIP Battle!

“ Brit was 1st cousin and close childhood friend to my son Caleb. We were fortunate to have shared our lives with him and have many great memories. One in particular sticks out to me was our trip to watch the Chattanooga Lookouts. Someone gave me free tickets and I took the boys Brit and Caleb. What I didn't do is feed them before we got to the game. That free game cost nearly $100 in hotdogs, fries, ice cream and cokes. They had the best time and had no idea who won the game. I'll always remember that “free” ballgame with the boys.

Brit was a kind, generous and gentle person. Brit was special and will be fondly remembered forever.
