“ We sure will miss our huntin' buddy! I remember hog hunting in South Georgia and a terrible storm came up and we were getting pelted by hard rain as the boat was going full steam ahead on the river. Eric was captain that day! I felt so sorry for him I kept saying HOW CAN YOU SEE?! He steered us to a little sketchy shack on the bank and we took refuge in there. He never flinched. I was glad to have him with us! I'm glad you're Home now, but I wish you could have waited on us all to go together!

“ When we moved to Mac Lake a couple of years ago, Eric made us feel welcome from the very beginning. He was always there when we needed something and never expected or wanted anything in return. He will be missed dearly - Todd & Ann

“ Although I've only known Eric for almost 1 year, we developed a deep relationship with each other. He loved what loved...our wives, our kids, our family, fishing , hunting, and the outdoors in general. We had great talks about our faith. I was “the Yankee” and he was the guy who spoke with a strange accent. In 61 years of life, I've met many guys who could do almost anything with their hands. Well, I finally met a guy who could “everything”! He always returned my texts. And he always made time to help me at ever turn! Some people have “security blankets” in life. Eric had very quickly became my “electric” security blanket-he was on instantly! Please watch over us all as Mac Lake will be very different moving forward. Grateful that you & I became great friends! Enjoy diving in Heaven. I've heard it's beautiful!
