“ *To me this was a shock. I have only known the Kennedy's from their appearance at the Anchor Inn. I teased them, made their photo and just Friday I visited with her husband at a table. I teased him because I was 3 years older than he. Never, at any time, did I know that Mrs Nelda had 'passed on'. Never, at any time did she ever complain or reveal her sickness.....I feel a sense of loss and I only knew her under different circumstances. May GOD bless the Kennedy family. “ It did not matter where you met Nelda. She was always the same friendly, outgoing person each time you talked to her. She will be missed by many

“ I know words can not ease your pain & grief. May the LORD wrap you in HIS loving arms & provide you with comfort in knowing Nelda is healthy, happy & at home with family & JESUS. She is doing better than any of us. I remember when we were 3, she took Ed & I down to Florida. First time I've ever been she made us think the car drove itself, & we honestly believed her, I mean after all her hands weren't on the steering wheel & her foot wasn't on the gas pedal! lol And I'll never forget when we went in the ocean, she had to "fish" Ed out. He had a round waist floaty & tried to swim normally. He ended up upside down with his feet in the air kicking like crazy. 😊 She took us swimming, played games with us, shopping. She remember many a summer nights playing in the yard while her, Charlie & Momma sat on the porch talking away.
